As a Full Stack Developer with a background in various past experiences and previous studies, I have acquired strong skills in teamwork and large-scale data analysis. My specialization focuses on Front-end development, where I have experience in creating attractive and functional user interfaces, as well as Back-end development, where I have worked on database implementation and business logic. Additionally, I have knowledge in agile methodologies, GIT, data structures, algorithms, and CSS frameworks, among others. I have worked on projects involving the development of complete applications, both on the Front-end and Back-end, using technologies such as HTML, CSS, JavaScript, React, Node.js, and SQL and NoSQL databases. My focus on problem-solving and effective communication, combined with my ability to quickly adapt to new environments and learn new technologies, has allowed me to succeed in the projects I have participated in. Furthermore, my English level is advanced (C2).
